U. V. M. DOWNS HOLY CROSS

Springfield Springs Surprise on Harvard—Brown Beats Williams, Yale Swamps Villanova, and Wesleyan Falls to Trinity.

Surprises were many on the football field Saturday. Cornell woke up grid-iron fans by beating Princeton by a single point, while Yale caused another sensation by trouncing the strong Pennsylvania eleven. Then Harvard was given a rattling game by the Springfield training school, and something new in the line of forward passing was sprung on the Cambridge onlookers.

Dartmouth showed strength at Amherst, but it had all the hard luck possible. Amherst was up against a superior team and did well to hold the "Wah-Wahs" to 15 to 10. Dartmouth and Amherst were scored on Saturday for the first time. Yale swamped Villanova, Trinity beat Wesleyan, and Brown put Williams down in a stiff but somewhat erratic game. U. V. VERMONT TURNS DOWN HOLY CROSS

Hard-Fought Contest Results in 6 to 0 Victory of the Burlington Boys.

Worcester, Oct. 28.—Holy Cross was defeated here Saturday by the university of Vermont in one of the most desperately contested games ever played in Worcester, 6 to 0. Vermont won, but not through superior playing. Holy Cross carried the ball within Vermont's 20-yard line on three different occasions in the first half, while Vermont found it almost impossible to gain. Vermont braced in the second half, and carried the ball into Holy Cross' territory, but was compelled to punt on each occasion, after an exchange of punts. Near the end of the game Watkins and White alternated in carrying the ball down the field toward the Holy Cross goal line. After a desperate battle, Holy Cross held for downs on their three-yard line. Day then punted for Holy Cross to the 40-

There was no more scoring, but Holy Cross, rendered desperate, carried the ball to Vermont's 30-yard line, when time was called. Vermont outweighted Holy Cross 20 pounds to a man, but was much the slower of the two, and was rushed off its feet in the first half. The line-up:

NORWICH DEFEATS ST. MICHAEL'S.

Northfield Boys Play Open Game With Good Results.

Northfield, Oct. 28.—Norwich university defeated St. Michael's college of Burlington Saturday afternoon on the parade, 33 to 0.

The game was interesting from the start to the finish, in that Norwich played a very open game and showed that she has a thorough knowledge of new style football. In the first half Norwich made three touchdowns, Huntley kicking a goal. The visitors were a lighter team and were strong on line bucking, but weak on the defensive.

In the second half Norwich made three more touchdowns, all of which were made in rapid succession, by working the forward pass and on side kicks. Reed was easily the star of the game, making several long runs, two of which resulted in touchdowns, after he had shook off men who attempted to make a tackle. White, the new quarter back, a freshman, coming here from Dean academy, has developed into a remarkable man, showing great headwork at critical times. Huntley was all over the field and made gains through the line at will for long gains. Ryan and Murphy for the visitors were effective players.

The line-up:

St. Michael's. Norwich. Reed, r c l c, Charbonnet Huntley, r t l t, Holland D. Smith, r g l g, Hagen Campbell, c c, McLean F. Smith, 1 g r g, Miller Cassidy, 1 t r t, Dower Blanchard, Ladley, 1 c r c, McMan Cassell, r h b l h b, Linsag Maynard, McGary, 1 h b r h b, Gaurreau Damon, f b f b, Murphy White, q b q b, Ryan.

Summary: Score, 33 to 0; touchdowns, Reed 3, Damon 2, Maynard; goals from touchdowns, Huntley, White 2; referee, Thomas of Brown; umpire, Corbin; field judge, Berry; linesman at time, Barney; time, 20-minute halves.

GIRL DEAD, MOTHER TERRIBLY BURNED.

Unmindful of Self, Woman Tries to Save Child After Explosion.

Peterboro, N. H., Oct. 28.—An explosion of gas used for cleaning clothes caused the death of Florence Durant, aged 7 years, while her mother, Mrs. Kate Durant, suffered terrible burns, on Saturday. Mrs. Durant was cleaning some clothes in the kitchen of her home on Concord street when the fumes from an open bottle of gasoline caught fire from the stove.

Both Mrs. Durant and her little daughter, who was standing beside her, were covered with the blazing liquid when the explosion took place, but, heedless of her own burns, Mrs. Durant made a heroic effort to save the child.

Taking the child in her arms, she ran to the street screaming for help. Neighbors rushed in to their assistance and tore the burning clothing from them, but the girl was so badly burned that she died in a short time. The condition of Mrs. Durant was serious last night, but she is believed to have a chance of recovery.

Mrs. Durant is 35 years old, and the wife of Joseph Durant, a farm laborer.

DESIGNS ON KING'S LIFE.

Man Intending "To Shoot the Boss" Arrested at Newmarket, Eng.

London, Oct. 28.—The police at Newmarket, Eng., Saturday arrested a man suspected of having designs on the life of King Edward or the prince of Wales. The prisoner, who was a member of the Bechuana (South Africa) police, named J. H. Pearce, was found wandering in Clipperton park, where the king had been shooting last week, and in which the prince is going to shoot today. Pearce, when taken into custody, said he intended to "shoot the boss who was shooting here." After examination in the police court he was remanded for further inquiries regarding his past life. He participated in the Jameson raid into the Transvaal, and is laboring under the impression that he has a grievance against King Edward. The king left Newmarket Friday and returned to London.

TESTIMONY OF MRS. FAIRBANKS

Declares Husband Appeared Unnatural

HAD STARING EXPRESSION

Other Witnesses Give Their Testimony in the Murder Trial at Newmarket—The Case Resumed Today.

Brattleboro, Oct. 28.—The appearance of Mrs. William Fairbanks, wife of the respondent, on the witness stand was an interesting feature Saturday at the trial of William Fairbanks at Newmarket, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Grout of Saxtons River on the night of May 25. Mrs. Fairbanks was called by the defense and as obliged to repeat many of her answers in order that the jury might hear them. She appeared very downcast, and broke down and cried several times. Fairbanks took no more notice of her than he had of the witnesses who preceded her, sitting with his head in his hands and gazing upon the floor most of the time. She was examined by Lawyer A. E. Cudworth of South Londonderry, who takes the place of Lawyer A. F. Schenk of Brattleboro, who was announced to assist the counsel assigned by the court to defend Fairbanks. Mrs. Fairbanks testified that the last day Fairbanks was at home was May 9 previous to the shooting. She said that she noticed then and had noticed for some time that her husband appeared unnatural, that he talked and acted differently than usual and had a staring expression in his eyes.

On cross-examination by Attorney General C. C. Pitts Mrs. Fairbanks said she had known that Fairbanks was not spending all his money at home, but she said she did not know that he was going with Mary Grout further than what she had learned from other people. It was a long time before she would admit what she had spoken to her husband about his attention to Mrs. Grout, and then she said she did not talk with him about it. She finally admitted that she had talked with Mrs. Grout about it so much that Mrs. Grout came visiting her. She said Fairbanks always was pleasant in his home, was never quarrelsome, fretful or fault-finding, but that sometimes he was quick-tempered. She said he had talked much as some until a certain time, when she noticed that a change had come over him. On direct examination Mrs. Fairbanks said her husband could neither read nor write. This was offered to controvert the testimony of Mrs. Leone Lawrence, offered two or three days ago, who said that she saw Grout hand Fairbanks a letter which she had received from Thomas Penniman of Bellows Falls and that Fairbanks was angry thereat.

In support of Mrs. Fairbanks' testimony about Fairbanks' change in appearance and in support of its claim that when Fairbanks shot Mary Grout he was not mentally responsible, the defense put on George Townsend of Dummerston, who carried on the Sholes farm in that town in the summer of 1906. Mr. Townsend said he had known Fairbanks 25 to 30 years, and that Fairbanks had worked for him more or less in each of these years. He said that in May, 1906, he was called from the layfield in the afternoon of a very hot day because Fairbanks had sustained a sunstroke at the barn. He testified that Fairbanks had severe pains in his head and chest, was unable to take medicine only with much difficulty and trembled so violently that he shook the bed on which he had been placed.

Mr. Townsend said Fairbanks remained in bed until the second day and was not able to do any more work during that haying season. He said that Fairbanks went to the witness' house a few days before the shooting and appeared to be in "bad shape," being lame and having a staring look in his eyes, which made him look wild. Fairbanks, he said, went away Saturday noon and returned about 2 Sunday morning, which was unusual. The defense attempted to introduce some testimony as to conversation between Mrs. Fairbanks and the Fairbanks which took place at the dinner table at the Sholes farm on the Saturday before the shooting, but the state objected, and the court and attorneys were holding a conference as to the admissibility of the conversation when time for adjournment arrived.

The first witness Saturday was Mrs. Elizabeth Sankey, a colored woman, who was summoned by the state. Her home is in West Claremont, N. H., but she formerly lived in Grafton. Mrs. Mary Tuttle of Grafton had testified earlier in the week that she and Mrs. Sankey rode from Saxtons River to Bellows Falls on the same street car on the day of the shooting and that at the station she and Fairbanks had a dramatic conversation in which Fairbanks said that Mary Grout would not go back to Grafton alive. Mrs. Sankey denied that Mrs. Tuttle was on the same car with her, and she also said that although she stood within a few feet of Mrs. Tuttle and Fairbanks she heard no such conversation as Mrs. Tuttle had testified to. By this and other witnesses the defense is seeking to discredit Mrs. Tuttle's testimony. Charles Alton of Saxtons River was called by the defense. He said he was at the scene of the shooting before the body was taken into the house and that he heard Fairbanks say: "Somebody finished me." He was not cross-examined.

John Wyman of Saxtons River testified that he and Fairbanks had dinner together in Bellows Falls at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of the shooting, that after dinner they walked to North Walpole, N. H., where they drank a glass of beer each, that they then turned back to Bellows Falls and got one more drink of beer, and that it was 2:20 or later when they separated. Mrs. Tuttle had testified that Fairbanks went from Bellows Falls to Saxtons River on the 12:15 car. On cross-examination by Attorney General C. C. Pitts, Wyman was unable to say whether or not he had heard that day before the shooting. Fairbanks neither could he remember who paid for any of the drinks about which he testified. While the tendency of some of the witnesses for the defense, if considered separately, would tend to discredit Mrs. Tuttle's testimony as to the whereabouts of Fairbanks early in the afternoon of May 25, yet it is a fact that three of those witnesses disagree as to where he was.

CRIPPLED AUTO HELD A MILLION.

The Scattered Greenbacks Drew Crowd in New York Street.

New York, Oct. 28.—The breaking down of a big automobile loaded with $1,000,000 drew such a crowd around the entrance to the Grand street ferry Saturday that police reserves had to be called out to keep back the mob and protect the money. In the automobile were Mr. Roth, manager of the State Bank of Brooklyn, and a chauffeur. Over the top of the doors of the machine the edges of piles of greenbacks could be seen, and when the front part of the car blew up, packages of money were scattered all over the rear seat, a few falling to the ground. The machine was head for the Williamsburg bank.

The sight of the greenbacks started a rush of hundreds to the spot, and when Mr. Roth announced that the machine carried $1,000,000, the four policemen on duty at the ferry rushed in to protect the treasure. A fireboat was moored near by, and the firemen aided in the protection.

Winthrop, Oct. 28.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada, and Lady Laurier are the guests of ex-Gov. Joseph E. and Mrs. Willard of Virginia at their summer home, "High Court," Cornish, N. H., for a few days. The distinguished party arrived in a special entertainment car on the afternoon express from Ottawa and were driven in Gov. Willard's motor car across the river to Cornish. It is learned that the visit is purely a social one, there being no politics involved. The Lauriers and Willards, among other guests, were entertained at dinner last night by Col. and Mrs. Winston Churchill at Harlaaken house.

Col. Churchill is to make a tour of New England and later to Washington, starting next week, and that is why he is the first of the Cornish colony to entertain the ruler of Canada and his wife. A series of entertainments and dinners are planned for the party during their stay in Cornish by members of the colony.

Last Wednesday he took out a marriage license at Somerville city hall for himself and Miss Estelle Maud Callahan, a pretty nurse employed at the Relief hospital. Her age was given as 25. It was supposed by their friends that the two had gone to New York on the steamer Yale that night. Miss Callahan formerly lived in Edgewood, R. I., and it was before that she met Dr. Day.

Altogether about a dozen Italians were thrown into the water, which is from six to 10 feet deep. The exact number was not known. The most of them swam to a place of safety. MURDERED BEHIND FENCE

Man Shot on Street at Holyoke

AN ITALIAN IS KILLED

Woman Companion Who Gave the Alarm Is Held by the Police—The Latter Believe She Has Not Told Everything.

Holyoke, Mass., Oct. 28.—Eugenio Malley, or Emilio, was shot and instantly killed while walking with a young woman on the west side of Bowers street between Mosher and East Dwight streets in Holyoke, about 8:30 Saturday evening, and up to a late hour that night his murderer had not been located. The shot was fired at close range from over the board fence protecting the west side of Bowers street from the Boston & Maine railroad embankment. The weapon used was a shotgun, and a full charge of buckshot struck the murdered man from the right side and passed through his heart. No clues have been obtained as to the cause of the crime or what enemies, if any, the young man had.

The young woman who was with him when the crime was committed lived with him at 60 Race street, but stated Saturday evening that they were not married. Her stories conflict in some degree, although for the greater part she told them practically the same. According to her first story she was out walking with Malley and they were coming from the direction of the depot up the Bowers street hill, and for some reason, she claims, he wished to walk on the west side of the street, which is opposite the sidewalk. They had got about halfway up the hill when he stopped and she, walking on a few paces in advance, heard a shot fired, and turning, saw him drop to the street.

She rushed screaming to the Boston & Maine railroad station, a short distance away, and told the young Italian who conducts a bootblack stand at the station that a man from behind the fence had shot her companion, and urged him to come with her to the place. Patrolman Walter Murray, who is on duty at the station in the evening, heard her story and accompanied her to the spot where the man lay. In the meantime the shot had been heard by many on the street, and a large crowd had gathered. On lifting the man a revolver was found under his body, which gave rise to the report at first that he had committed suicide. The news spread rapidly, and Dr. E. J. McNamara, hearing of the case, hurried to the spot to render medical assistance if needed, but the man was dead before he arrived.

KILLED BY A JAIL SENTENCE.

Disgrace Was Death to Pittsburgh Man.

Pittsburgh, Penn., Oct. 28.—"Please don't send me to jail, judge, I've never been in jail in my life and it will kill me," pleaded Michael Dolan, 35, who had been arrested for drunkenness. Magistrate Frank Brady had sentenced him to serve 10 days in default of a fine.

"Oh, I guess it won't kill you," smilingly answered the magistrate. "You'll find it all right in jail."

As Dolan walked down the steps and through the barred door he staggered and fell. He was picked up and carried into the office of the warden and the jail physician was summoned. He glanced at Dolan, shook his head and only said:

"Heart disease."

The man's prophecy had come true. The disgrace of going to jail had killed him.
